Impact of area location

The map suggests that top two revenue earning Branch Ikoyi & Gbagada, both are near sea coast unlike other branches which suggest the possible gain in customers, thanks to tourists.

After Giving the Latitude & Longitude data, Gemini says Lekki is a currently developing area which has low population density of around 500 people per km sq. Surulere is a high density area but mostly filled with middle class people. The Top two branch Ikoyi & Gbagada are relatively rich economical area whereas Ibadan has a balanced economy with a significantly lower cost of living index. So the area location mostly explains their performance.

Impact of weekday

In Nigeria, Sunday is the official holiday. People are expected to go to restaurants on the weekend. Data also suggests that Saturday through Monday earns better revenue for restaurants.

On 3rd, 5th, 7th to 10th & 15th December, Domino's Pizza failed to achieve the daily Target. Possible reasons:

- 1) On Tuesday, Ibadan faces a noticeable revenue & sales drop. There is a single Wednesday record i.e. 9th December on which the best performer branch Ikoyi shows the worst performance. We need more data to verify the existence of any pattern of sales upswing on specific weekdays.
- 2) On 3rd December, Lekki & Surulere performs far below their usual average. This type of underperformance is again observed on 5th December, this time for Ibadan and Lekki; on 7th December, for Gbagada, Lekki & Surulere; On 10th December all branches except Lekki underperforms.

Interestingly on weekends, more specifically on Saturday, BBQ Chicken & on Sunday, Margarita becomes the 2nd highest revenue generating product! Things get more insightful in branch specific context.

Three Pizza : BBQ Chicken, Margarita & Italiano fail to achieve their specific sales revenue target. The first two are the worst performer in the highest 4k price category; overall as well as for top 2 revenue generating branches.

Italiano is always in the 2nd last revenue generating pizza in 3k price category for every branch whereas the last one in the same category, Beef Suya does achieve the target (exactly equals). So I think the target figure for Italiano was inappropriate and Domino's Pizza should either lower their expectation for this item or adopt any marketing strategy to promote Italiano Pizza.

So this could be a good strategy to promote these two underperforming products specially on weekends. Let's say we could promote BBQ Chicken on Saturday, in Ibadan, Lekki, Gbagada & Surulere and Margarita on Sunday in Lekki, Surulere & Ibadan. We could also promote Margarita on Saturday in Surulere Branch.
